REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

This Document Relates to:

Betty Asher, et al. v. Bayer Corp., et al.
(Plaintiff Dorothy Burt only)

Case No. 05-2578

No appearance on behalf of Plaintiff Dorothy Burt

Philip S. Beck, Adam Hoeflich, Susan Weber, and James Mizgala, Esqs., on behalf of Defendant
Bayer Corporation

SUSAN RICHARD NELSON, United States Magistrate Judge

The above-entitled matter comes before the undersigned United States Magistrate Judge on Defendant Bayer Corporation's Motion for Discovery Sanctions against Plaintiff Dorothy Burt (Doc. No. 13). This matter has been referred to the undersigned for a Report and Recommendation pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636 and D. Minn. LR 72.1.

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant Bayer Corporation ("Bayer") moves this Court to dismiss this action with prejudice as a sanction under PTO 149 and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 37(B)(2)(C) and 37(d) for Plaintiff Dorothy Burt's failure to appear for her duly noticed deposition on June 7, 2007, in Peoria, Illinois. Section I.A.2 of PTO 149 provides, in relevant part:

- a. Defendants shall be entitled to depose each Plaintiff . . .
- d. Except for good cause shown, if a Plaintiff fails to appear for his/her scheduled deposition, such Plaintiff's claims will be dismissed with prejudice.

On May 3, 2007, fully consistent with PTO 149, Bayer served a Notice of Deposition of Plaintiff Dorothy Burt upon Plaintiff's counsel of record to be taken on June 7, 2007, at Quinn, Johnston, Henderson & Pretorius in Peoria, Illinois.

Having received no notice that Plaintiff would not be appearing, the deposition went forward as noticed. Plaintiff's counsel of record appeared at the deposition, but Plaintiff did not. Bayer therefore created a record documenting Plaintiff's failure to appear.

II. DISCUSSION

Bayer argues that Plaintiff has willfully violated PTO 149, which established mandatory procedures for case-specific discovery, and that Bayer is prejudiced by Plaintiff's failure to appear for the deposition. In order to adequately defend against Plaintiff's claims, Bayer argues that it is entitled to fundamental discovery regarding Plaintiff's use of Baycol; the nature, extent, and potential causes of Plaintiff's alleged injuries; and the extent of Plaintiff's alleged damages. Plaintiff did not respond to Bayer's motion.

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 37 provides courts with broad discretion to impose sanctions for failure to comply with discovery orders, including the ultimate sanction of dismissal with prejudice. In pertinent part, the rule states that "[i]f a party . . . fails to obey an order to provide or permit discovery, including an order made under subdivision (a) of this rule . . . the court in which the action is pending may make such orders in regard to the failure as are just, [including] an order . . . dismissing the action or proceeding or any part thereof.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(b)(2)(C).

In the Eighth Circuit, dismissal may be considered as a sanction only where there is an order compelling discovery, willful violation of that order, and prejudice to the opposing party. Keefer v. Provident Life & Accident Ins. Co., 238 F.3d 937, 940 (8th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted). While a district court has discretion to impose discovery sanctions, such sanctions must be just and specifically related to the claim at issue. Id. (citations omitted). Before imposing dismissal, a court must consider whether a lesser sanction is appropriate under the circumstances, but need not impose the least onerous sanction available. Id. (citations omitted). The Court notes that the sanction of dismissal has been found appropriate in similar Baycol matters. See, e.g., Haines v. Bayer Corp., Civ. No. 03-4601 (MJD/SRN), slip. op. at 1 (D. Minn. May 23, 2007) (adopting Report and Recommendation of May 4, 2007).

In the present case, PTO 149 specifically and clearly calls for the dismissal of an action if a plaintiff fails to appear for his or her deposition. Further, the Court finds that Bayer has shown the requisite prejudice. It is undisputed that Bayer is entitled to discover fundamental facts regarding Plaintiff’s usage of Baycol, injuries, and damages, by way of deposition. Plaintiff’s failure to appear for her deposition makes it virtually impossible for Bayer to prepare an adequate defense to her claims. Hence, a sanction of dismissal of Plaintiff’s claims is appropriate under these circumstances.

This Court must consider, of course, whether a lesser sanction against Plaintiff would cure the prejudice to Bayer. However, because Plaintiff saw fit to ignore her deposition notice, the Court finds in its discretion that any lesser sanction would be futile. It is therefore recommended that Bayer's motion for dismissal be granted.

Accordingly, based on all the files, records, and proceedings herein, IT IS HEREBY RECOMMENDED that:

1. Defendant Bayer Corporation's Motion for Discovery Sanctions against Plaintiff Dorothy Burt (Doc. No. 13) be GRANTED; and
2. Plaintiff Dorothy Burt's claims be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.
